

Living, not Existing:

Putting prevention at the heart of care for older people

Occupational therapy can enable older people to live and not just exist by:

Preventing or delaying the need for care and support

Helping them to remain in their communities

Ensuring equality of access to occupational therapy by formally developing partnerships agreements with housing, health and social care sectors

To download the report and view the film go to www.rcotimprovinglives.com

Royal College of Occupational Therapists

Occupational Therapy
Improving Lives
Saving Money

#ValueofOT